ENEWS SEPTEMBER 2023
Highlights: Technical • Marketing • Safety

Dear Members,

This month is brought to you by dust... and all the padding that goes on, often unnoticed, under the water.

In the last month we have had meetings with the QLD Building Minister, NSW Small Business and Planning Ministers, made submissions to the South Australian and ACT gov and I don't know how many calls, ministerial visits, member tours, PR releases and TV interviews all focused on trying to keep the National Construction Code (NCC) energy provisions on track. While we acknowledge recent delays in Queensland and the Australian Capital Territory, with expected updates slated for May '24, and January '25 it was great to see NSW proceed as planned on the last of October against the backdrop of heavy and sustained pressure from building groups.

While it may feel that we are in the eye of the storm of residential energy efficiency measures in many states our engagement is not complete, so we seek to ensure they do pass through in each jurisdiction as planned. For instance, this Friday, we will be meeting with each of the state and federal building ministers in Melbourne to discuss into details and the ongoing need for NCC reforms, we believe these engagements are crucial to ensuring a sustainable and profitable window and glass industry over the coming decades.

I look forward to keeping you updated on the important and ongoing work AGWA is doing in promoting improved regulation for our industry.
